Course Description: Undercover narcotic operations are a necessary tool to effectively target drug traffickers operating in our communities. All too often, police departments fail to provide their newly assigned "Narcotic Investigators" with any type of training prior to starting undercover work. This can lead to serious mistakes that can cost officers their lives. During this course officers will be exposed to “operations gone wrong” that will demonstrate various teaching points.

Case studies will be presented with interviews of undercover officers involved in operations that resulted in the officer being injured and/or officer's use of deadly force. Topics to be covered will include but not limited to: Dangers of working with outside agencies, results of poor planning, “Fight or Flight”, and carrying police identification during buy-bust operations to name a few. There will be an open discussion after each case study. Exposure to these case studies can aid you in future undercover operations. Instructors include “active and current” narcotic officers will participate in this course and will be available for question and answer.

The fee for the course is FREE to TNOA members and $40.00 for non-members. Request to attend this course may be sent via e-mail to jmclain@houstonhidta.net.
